

How do I come across to others?

Feedback intensive

Seminar Objective

For anyone who has a lot to do with people, it is important to know what others really think. Self-knowledge contributes significantly to personal development. Realistic self-assessment is the prerequisite for successful action and interaction in the workplace.

Seminar Content

- What first impression do I make?
- How do people who I meet for the first time see me?
- How do I come across in groups?
- How do I come across in a one-on-one interview?
- What effect do I have on customers?
- How do I come across to employees and superiors?
- To what extent does my image of myself and the image others have of me match?
- How do I help others to gain self-knowledge?
- What are the feedback rules which should to be observed?
- How do I respond to feedback?
- How do I come across in the private sphere
- How do other people judge my strengths and weaknesses?
- What is 'impression management'?
- What support is available when a desire for change is requested?
- Practice of alternative ways of behaving

This seminar is also offered as part of a qualification programme.
